Spring needs some zing

Haven't tried a bit of doggerel for quite a while, so I hope you'll forgive me if I succumb to that rare and insane urge to write non-poetry.

Ode to Spring

Spring!
You are simply not doing your thing.
Most seasons enter with a certain Equanimity.
You have been coming in with utter Asininity.

You're behavior's absurd
And only a bird
Would be dumb enough to take wing
This spring.

Let's see a little zing, Spring!
I don't mind the slush
And the snow and below
But it's not exactly the thing.
Spring.

And I don't know about you, but that's all I can stomach of that particular poem.

It promises to be an interesting spring. In Ontario, the teachers in Metro Toronto asked for a sturdy increase. The Board refused. The teachers' federation "pink-listed" the Board. This means that any member of the federation will be frowned on from a great height if he or she takes a job with that Board.

The Trustees' Council of the province has retaliated by baring its claws and exposing its yellow fangs. It has pink-listed all the school boards in the province. The result should be a barrack-room lawyer's delight, and an educational schmozzle.

At least (though I doubt it) this might put an end to the annual cattle sale, a demeaning aspect of a fairly fine profession where teachers are lured with booze, bigger salaries and other benefits, into teaching at Great Slave Lake secondary school. And at which school boards become panders.

Along this line, don't get too excited by the government's expressed determination to "hold the line" and "take a firm stand" against inflation. The government is merely trying to trim a little fat off the cat, trying to conceal the fact that she is pregnant and nobody wants the kittens.

The rich will continue to be rich, and the poor will continue to be poor. And the middle-class will howl bloody murder, as they always have.

I couldn't care less. I'll pay my income tax, and support an entire family on welfare. Maybe they need it. I've lived on bread and water for three weeks, and I know what it's like.

But there are two things I object to in the White Paper on tax reform. I don't like to be taxed on taxes. That is, if I'm paying $500 in real estate tax, and I have to pay income tax on that $500, I object.

Strenuously. And I object just as violently to the fantastic capital gains of land speculators. This field is full of downright crooks working with other people's money and producing nothing except fat profits for themselves. Sock it to them, Mr. Benson.

This has nothing to do with tax reform, but Kim Smiley is alive and well and living in Limbo. That's the favorite residence of a lot of young people these days. It's a sort of crossroads between Utopia and the salt mines.

Limbo is not a bad place to live, actually. No taxes, no demanding job. I wouldn't mind the odd holiday there. But I wouldn't like it as a permanent residence. I'd miss the old toil and struggle and sweat of real life. It's cool in Limbo, but who wants to be cool all the time?

I'll take the arena of life, where you have to face the bull (and you can take that any way you wish) and either not flinch from the horns, or run like hell for the barricadoes. At least there's a choice.

CLEANING BEACHES

A contract has been awarded D. L MacKenzie of West Bay, to clean a section of beach from the Government Wharf to LeBrun's Wharf from oil pollution caused by the wreck of the tanker "Arrow", on Cerebrus Rock in Chedebucto Bay.

Sheldon MacKenzie and a crew of men have been engaged at this work for the past week and are doing a splendid job of clean-up operations and our beaches are now quite presentable as the bulldozing has left a sandy bottom after the removal of large stones and boulders. All the gravel containing oil has been hauled away to an isolated dump several miles from the beaches.

Although the clean-up appears at times to be an impossible task, we are quite satisfied that the work at hand is progressing quite well and that Dr. P. D. MacTaggart-Cowan, and his Task Force are doing everything possible to rid our beaches and coastline of bunker C oil that spilled from the "Arrow" and ended up on beaches on both sides of Chedubucto Bay.

PRATLEY AT THE MOVIES

In April, Gerald Pratley celebrates his 22nd. year At The Movies on CBC radio. Each Saturday, our man on the aisle reports on the film scene, national and international, talks to film-makers, writers, actors and composers, reports on film festivals and reviews the latest crop of cinema fare. According to critic Nathan Cohen, Pratley is "the one reliable guide in Canada to what's happening both at home and abroad". He's also heard each week on Assignment, and on the Gerussil show. Pratley is one of the few Canadians with an international reputation as a film authority, a reputation gained largely through his broadcasting.

It'll cost me a fortune

No major, or even minor theme this week. Just a few observations. Perhaps the most important to me is that my daughter has turned over a new leaf. Or perhaps it's just an old stone. She is studying hard for two music exams, and actually has a job, part-time.

She has learned, in a remarkably brief period, that "bread," as the kids call it, is fairly important when it comes to eating and keeping a roof over one's head. She has learned that jobs are mighty scarce when your only experience is playing the organ in a church one summer. She has learned that a Grade 13 certificate and one term at college has as much use as a third leg.

She came home on the weekend, with her danged cat and kitten, and clamoured for meat. Real meat. She's sick to death of hamburger and bologna, and drooled over a steak in her honor.

But she's a criminal. She went back to the city with her kitten stuffed under her jacket. I believe it's against the law to transport animals on buses. However, she's a clever criminal, and may go a long way. She gave the kid a quarter of a sleeping tablet in milk so he wouldn't yowl for his mama and alert the bus driver. We've been left with the mother cat, an unexpected treat, like a hair in your meat pie.

We agree that Kim will be fired on the first day of her new job. Her function is to stock shelves in one of those cut-rate stores. And since she was three, her greatest attribute has been knocking over her milk, dropping full bottles of any liquid, and smashing cups and saucers while doing the dishes. It's not lack of coordination. She can play a Beethooven sonara. Oh, well. We'll see.

That's one thing off my chest. The next one is not so pleasant. I share with most Canadian citizens a sickening disgust at the attitude of most Members of Parliament toward their own financial security. At present, with their $18,000 a year, six of it tax-free, and various other "perks": Postage, travel, secretarial help, etc., they're grossing about $20,000, as MP Barry Mather recently pointed out. This is not wealth. Far from it, these days. And I think they should give themselves a reasonable increase, consistent with the cost of living and tax increases. But the proposed pension plan stinks to high heaven. Oppose it, with every means within your power.

The old pension scheme was rotten, and many men who had given most of their lives to public service wound up in poverty. But the new one is rotten in the opposite sense. Don't let them pass it.

Another item which has me pretty disturbed is that The Telegram News Syndicate, which circulates this column, wants an up-to-date picture of yours truly. Who first came up with this infamous idea I don't know, but vile and vicious are the words that first come to mind. It'll cost me a fortune.

I'll have to buy a wig. I'll have to have my remaining molars painted white. I'll have to pay a photographer to touch the whole thing up. And I'll still look like a veteran of the Boer War. My wife disagrees. She says my fine bone structure will always come through. Yeah. Just like a death's head.

However, I ain't ascared. The grog blossoms won't show, in black and white. I can have my eyes debagged, which is expensive, but works. My Roman nose is intact, and perhaps a side shot, with the jowls taped up behind my ears, might convince some people of something or other.

Maybe they could take the shot from the waist up, and show the needle-holes where I had my cortisone shots. I would certainly be better than one from the waist down. I have bow-legs, and gout in my right big toe. Anyway, you'll be seeing it. Take a good snort, or a tranquilizer, before it comes out. I'll be right there with you.

But what the heck, we all have troubles. If nobody's were greater than mine, it wouldn't be a bad world. Cope with your own troubles, and don't let them drag you down. Look at the world troubles, and if you, personally, can do something about them, do it.

Otherwise don't let them drag you down. It's a long road that has no turning; you'll be a long time dead; and spring is here. Rejoice!

We accompanied him on a trip to the South Side and Cape Auguet where oil has scarred some of the shoreline.

Mr. and Mrs. Power were on a cruise during the winter to Europe and visited many places of interest including Italy, France and Ireland.

BAKING BANTER by Suzanne

Many flours other than wheat flour are used in baking, but white flour is the best known and most widely used.

Wheat flours are either hard or soft. All purpose flour, a hard wheat flour, contains a tough gluten and is especially suited for making yeast breads.

Cake and pastry flours, milled from soft wheat, form a weak gluten and bake to a crumbly texture—desirable in cake and pastry. These flours are better suited for use in products using baking powder or soda as leavening.

The term "flour" today, when unqualified, usually refers to all purpose.It is the only flour used in many homes. It may be satisfactorily used for all cookery purposes, but it may not be substituted for another flour without making certain changes.

PASTRY: When using all purpose flour for pastry, increase the amount of fat used from 1 part fat to 4 parts pastry flour, to 1 part fat to 3 parts all purpose flour. More liquid may also be needed. For flaky results, handle gently to avoid developing the gluten. It is easier to handle than made from pastry flour.

CAKES, MUFFINS, ETC.: To substitute all purpose flour for cake or pastry flour, reduce the quantity by 2 tablespoons per cup and avoid overheating.

Suzanne is a dietician and baking consultant for Dover Mills, the only flour manufacturer in the Atlantic Provinces.

SPRING AND BICYCLES

A bicycle is only as safe as its driver. Ninety-nine children were injured and five killed in traffic collisions in Nova Scotia during 1968, the last full year for which stastistics are presently available.

The Nova Scotia Highways Department reports that 82 of the injured children were in the 5 to 14 age group and seven were between the ages of 14 and 15. Two of those who died in bicycle accidents were between 5 and 14 years of age and three were between 15 and 19 years old.

The Department provides the following tips for bicycle operations, and urges parents to pass them along as an added safeguard for their children.

Obey all traffic laws, signs and lights.

Signal turns and stops properly. The left arm out and up for a right turn. . . out straight for a left turn. . . out an down for a stop.

After signalling, return your left hand to the handle bar promptly. . . and keep both hands on the handle bars.

Ride in single file, close to the curb.

At busy intersections, stop at the curb, get oif your bike and walk it across. At stop lights, walk your bike across only on the green signal.

Walk your bike when you're on a sidewalk. Only very small children with sidewalk bikes may use the walks for riding.

Carry parcels in a carrier. . . not in your hand.

A regulation bike is for one rider. . no passengers allowed.

When riding after dark, or in poor visibility, your bike must have a white or amber front light, a red reflector or light on the rear. It is also suggested that red reflective material at least 10 inches long and 1 inch wide be used on the back fender, and white reflective material at least 10 inches long and 1 inch wide be placed on the front forks.

Never hitch a ride by holding onto a moving vehicle.

If a bicycle has a mechanical fault, such as loose handle bars, broken spokes, or an improperly adjusted chain—don't operate it on a street or highway.

Anyone trespassing on my property, located in Samsonville or St. Peter's, Richmond County, or damaging the dwelling or buildings as well as using the land in Samsonville, will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

PRAISE YOUNG PEOPLE

Nova Scotia's newest brigade of litter fighters have received warm plaudits from Premier G. I. Smith, Highways Minister Hon. I. W. Akerley and Education Minister Hon. G. J. Doucet.

The teenagers, representing more than 30 provincial high schools - a total force of well over 3,000 tackled a "mile of highway" litter survey and cleanup on Wednesday, April 22.

The results were staggering and focused province-wide attention on the abuse of highways for litter and garbage disposal.

The "dirty-story" of highway litter will be tabulated from survey forms prepared by the participating high schools - to give an indication of the extent of the problem. Debris collected has covered an almost unbelievable range including car parts, tires, cartons construction materials and dead animals, to the more common types of highway litter as candy wrappers, chips bags, tissues, cigaret packages, a wide range of bottles, cans, scrap metal ,paper bags, toys, plastic articles and wearing apparel.

The litter drive was jointly organized as an "earth day" project by the Departments of Highways and Education, primarily to educate young people about the litter problem and focus public attention on the subject. In both aims the campaign has been an overwhelming success.

Colorful protest posters were carried by the young people in their government sponsored march against litter - and later used to accentuate the stacks of garbage they recovered from the roadsides.

Speaking in Kentville following the litter clean-up, Premier Smith took note of the students who had shown such concern over the beauty and future of the province.

Mr. Smith said that young people are concerned "and rightly so", - about such abuse of Nova Scotia's environment. "May I thank them for showing by their action, the faith they have in this province, and their desire to have it properly looked after."

Both Mr. Akerley and Mr. Doucet were also enthused about the efforts expended by the students and hoped that the demonstration against the use of Nova Scotia's countryside as a garbage dump would be a message which would be heeded by those responsible for such thoughtless abuse.
