BUMPS, BLOOD AND ENJOYMENT

It's hard for the average chap to get away from the daily bind: wife, kids, job, mowing the lawn. He's fortunate if he can sneak a game of golf or get out fishing, without experiencing a deep guilt feeling. This week, I did it, have no guilt feeling, and spent one of the most enjoyable days I've had in years.

A colleague who is an ardent crafty and persistent angler, and is leaving the area, decided to treat me to a day's fishing at one of the secret places he has reconnoitred over the years, and would rather sell his wife and children into slavery than reveal its location.

He doesn't have to worry. It took us three hours to get on the lake and I couldn't find my way back there with the help of a bloodhound handcuffed to a Mountie. We began on highways that dwindled to gravel concession roads that shrunk to mountain-goat paths that ended in solid bush.

We crossed a couple of bridges that looked as though a well-fed family of butterflies couldn't walk across them without going through. And we were in a van, with a boat in the back. On each occasion, I felt something in my mouth, and knew it wasn't my foot, but my heart.

But finally, there was the lake, lovely and utterly solitary. Just us and the bugs. And we were outnumbered about eight million to one. Mosquitoes the size of starlings.

Those beasts lapped up fly dope like kids licking ice cream. You could have had a bath in the stuff, and they'd still have come in like another wave of Zulu warriors.

Later, I was put ashore for a short portage, and got an inkling of what the coureurs-de-bois suffered. Any man who tells me that "the bugs don' bother me" is a liar. When you're swallowing about six with each labored breath, and your nose and ears are full of them, it's not hard to believe that a man could go insane in a very short time, alone in the bush.

While ashore, in a thick bush, I could put my hand to the back of my head, and remove it with a solid handful of blood and mashed mosquitoes. In five minutes my head was a phrenologist's delight —a solid mass of bumps and blood.

But once on the lake, we got a modicum of relief. And the fishing was very pleasant. It was one of those too-rare summer days that are ideal for fishing: Cloudy, odd flash of sun, threat of rain, and just enough breeze to ripple the surface.

We trolled and chatted and ate sandwiches and had a slug of rum. It must have been the last item that did it. After more than an hour without even a snag, I was caught on the bottom, right after we'd had a snort. We backed up to try to save the lure, and suddenly the bottom began to move.

I knew it wasn't a real fish. A speckled, rainbow, or bass will fight, jump and try to snag you under the boat. This was an old rubber boot. Besides, there were no rainbow, speckled or bass in this lake.

After five minutes of praying that my rotten line, un-used for two years, wouldn't break, I caught a glimpse of him, and my suspicions were confirmed. Just a dirty big sucker I'd probably hooked by the tail.

Oh, well, I had to get my lure. So I dragged him up, my partner netted him, and with considerable chagrin I discovered I'd caught a 5 1/2 pound lake trout. Sneaky devils go for the bottom instead of coming up and fighting.

Another hour without a touch and we decided to move into the other secret lake, where the big speckled are. After a vicious 60-foot portage of sort, which left me gasping like a trout out of water, we were on it. Again, a completely lonely little lake, wooded to the water, with not a cottage of waer-skier in sight.

My partner took a 10 1/2-pound lake trout as the sun went down and total peace reigned. He didn't like to, but he was forced to smile as he laid it down beside my "big one."

A nice day. Two strikes, two lakes, two fish. And my wife nearly died of shock when I walked in holding them.

AIRSTRIP FOR STRAIT AREA

Ottawa, June 26 — Approval of a federal contribution towards a new airstrip for the Strait of Canso area was announced today by Manpower Minister Allan J. MacEachen.

Mr. MacEachen said he had been informed by his colleague, Transport Minister Donald Jamieson that a contribution of $115,000 has been approved for a 3000 foot gravel airstrip in the Port Hawkesbury area.

The money is being made available under the Department of Transport's airport financial assistance program and will provide for a taxiway and apron as well as a runway.

The decision to participate in the construction of air-strip facilites in the Strait area was made following a survey by the Department of Transport. It is understood that land for the project is being acquired by the province of Nova Scotia and will be turned over to the Town of Port Hawkesbury. The strip will be located in the Pleasant Hill area of Port Hastings and will be built so that by a simple extension of the runway larger aircraft can be accommodated.

Mr. MacEachen said that provision of the airstrip was in keeping with the economic growth and increase in population which have highlighted developments in the Strait of Canso area in recent years.

This new service, he said, would add to the area's attractiveness, both as a place to live and as an industrial centre.

On the last day of the Max Ferguson Show (during which Max received a telegram from Robert L. Stanfield and a phone call from John Diefenbaker, a longtime admirer) it was announced that the 46-year old broadcaster had been awarded the Medal of Service by the government of Canada. A fitting recognition of 23 years of broadcasting on CBC radio, in which time the early morning satirist has become a national institution. But take heart, Ferguson fans, Max will be back in September, with two skits daily on the network.....

Other recent award-winners are the Ivan Romanoff Chorus and Orchestra, who were invited to attend the Slovak World Congress in New York to accept an award for their contribution to the propagation of Slovak culture. Romanoff is taking a summer break away from his program, Centinental Rhapsody, which for years has featured the music of many lands.....

Every now and then, co-hosts Alan Millar and Harry Brown of CBC Metronome like to report firsthand on musical events of national importance, though they normally rely on a string of reporters across Canada to do this for them. From St. John's, July 11, they'll report on the month-long Festival of the Arts being held in the new Arts and Cultural Centre, and on July 18th they'll talk about the new musical, Jane Eyre, being premiered at the Charlottetown Festival.....

Manitoba figures largely in the program schedule; the province is in the midst of a year-long centennial celebrations commemmorating its entry into Confederation in 1870. CBC Stage, July 11, presents The Lady of the Plains by Winnipeg writer William Yankewitz, a drama about the Countess of Dufferin, the first steam locomotive brought to the prairies in 1877. It is followed on Anthology by Red River Voices, a prose poem by Christopher Dafoe, formerly with the Winnipeg Free Press.....

On the eve of centenary celebrations, July 14, CBC Tuesday Night offers a mixed bag of Manitobiana. The Ballad of the Seven Oaks by Neil Haris is followed by Steve a documentary on Winnipeg's major Stephen Juba. The last segment of the program is devoted to a word and song portrait of Pierre Falcon, Bard of the Metis.....

Highlighting the Manitoba centenary is the visit of the royal family. On the last day of their tour H.M., The Queen will address the Manitoba Legislature in Winnipeg; the royal party will attend the Manitoba Centennial Derby at Assiniboia Downs; and in the evening they'll be spectators at Manitoba 100, a country-western fiesta. All the events will be covered live on the CBC radio network, allowing the rest of the country to join in the birthday festivities.....

METEOROLOGICAL SERVICE TO CHANGE FORECAST FORMAT

Atlantic Region

The Canadian Meteorolgical Service of the Federal Ministry of Transport will introduce, for a trial period of a year, beginning July 13, a number of changes in the public inland forecast program across the country. The new pro gram is designed to simplify and streamline the forecasts so that they will be more readily understood and remembered, particularly when heard via radio and viewed on TV.

The forecasts will emphasize the most important factor and detail and less important features will be considerably reduced. Long and detailed descriptions of winds and sky conditions will be avoided and these items will be omitted when the weather situation indicates that they are relatively unimportant compared to other weather items such as rain or snow which may be more significant at the time. As a rule winds will be included only if they are forecast to exceed 20 miles per hour in a significant period of the forecast.

The temperature extremes will be given in ranges for the entire region or regions covered by the forecast in order to provide all communities located in them with information that will be applicable rather to supply only selected locations with temperature forecasts as has been done in the past.

A few new terms will be used from time to time, such as "dull" (overcast), "Fine" (variable cloudiness), "Brisk Winds" (15 to 25 miles per hour).

To supplement the forecasts, Weather Bulletins giving background stories of weather information of local interest will be provided each day by the Weather Offices at Halifax, Gander and Goose Bay. In addition to providing a general word picture of the weather processes that have been and are affecting the local area, when appropriate, the Bulletins will contain reports on unusual or newsworthy amounts or occurrences of rain, snow, sunshine, dry weather, wet weather, severe local storms, extremely high or low temperatures etc.

During the trial period the Meteorological Service would be pleased to receive comments on the suitability of the new program.

In general, it is intended that the forecasts be much shorter and more lucid and that they provide an improvement in service. Members of the public who may wish to comment on the new program or who may wish to make suggestions for improvement are invited to write the nearest weather office or to the Regional Meteorologist, P. O. Box 42, Moncton, N.B.

NOVA SCOTIA HIGHWAY SAFETY COUNCIL

Don't be a menace. Traffic will be heavy on our highways this summer. Please permit other vehicles to pass if traffic builds up behind you. Your action will show your good driving manners, your respect of the law and plain good sense. It could also save your life. GRADUATION EXERCISES OF ISLE MADAME DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL

At the graduation exercises of the Isle Madame District High School, which took place in the Audio-Visual Room of the school, with Warden Walter J. Fougere, as Master of Ceremonies, who introduced Hon. Gerald J. Doucet, Minister of Education and M.L.A. for the County of Richmond; H. M. Nason, Deputy Minister of Education, the guest speaker. Mr. Michael MacNeil, Principal, and Rev. Father George Arsenault, of St. Joseph's Parish, Petit de Grat, who presented the graduates with Certificates.

Warden Fougere welcomed the guests seated on the stage and also congratulated the Principal, Mr. MacNeil and his Staff and all the Graduates of the 1970 Class.

FRED THURGOOD IN THE NEWS

We are most grateful to John Auburn McGrath of Calgary, for sending us a copy of the Magazine Section of the Calgary Times, where a very deserving write-up featuring Fred Thurgood, a magistrate for the City of Calgary, appeared.

Fred, who is the elder son of Mary A. Thurgood of Calgary, and the late Albert Thurgood, resided in Arichat during his youth where he received his High School Education, later entering Dalhousie University Law School.

We always predicted a bright future for Fred, and we are happy to note of his success in the West. We are very happy to wish him and his family continued good health and happiness.

The story on Fred will appear in our next issue and we are sure his many friends here and throughout the County will be happy to read of his success.

NSTU WILL CONVENE EXECUTIVE CONFERENCE

Executive members of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union will convene at White Point Beach, June 24 to 26 for their annual Executive Conference. Dr. Elmer von Egmond of Leslie College, Cambridge, Massachusetts will be in attendance the first day of the conference to conduct Human Relations exercises and sensitivity training sessions. These techniques have been used extensively in industry and are now beginning to be used in education.

Other topics on the conference program include trends in NSTU negotiations, communications, and professional development. NSTU objectives, membership and teacher certification will also be discussed. Deputy Minister of Education, Dr. Harold Nason, will be the guest speaker on Thursday at a special session on in-service training of teachers. Presidents of the eleven special associations of the NSTU and professional development co-ordinators, who are meeting at the same time, will share some of the conference sessions jointly. The three day conference will conclude at noon on Friday, June 26.

OBITUARY

ED. CHESTER REINHARDT

Edward Chester Reinhardt, 67, of Liverpool, was buried in Zion Church Cemetery following funeral service at Chandler's Funeral Chapel, Liverpool.

He was the son of the late Capt. and Mrs. J. P. Reinhardt.

Surviving are his wife, Rhoda; two sons, Edward, Liverpool, and Charles, Ontario; three granddaughters, and two grandsons.

The late Mr. Reinhardt was a resident of Arichat for several years and was the son of the late Capt. and Mrs. J. P. Reinhardt, who took up residence in Arichat, coming here from Summerside, P. E. I. The family later moved to Goldboro, Guysborough Co., and their last residence was in Brooklyn, near Liverpool, N. S.

The late Mr. Reinhardt engaged in engineeing and for many years and up to his retirement two years ago was employed as engineer on the CN Ferry at P.E.Island.

Former friends and acquaintances in Arichat and in the Strait area were saddened by his death.

We extend sympathy to his wife and family.

MRS. BARBARA MIDDLETON

Mrs. Barbara Middleton, 89, of Rockdale, widow of Henry Middleton, died recently in Halifax. Born in L'Ardoise she was a daughter of the late Firmand and Celeste Mombourquette.

She is survived by five daughters Muriel, Rita, Cecilia, Margaret (Mrs. Dan Gillis) and Edna (Mrs. Patrick Sampson) all of Halifax; three sons, Roy, L'Ardoise; Charley and Burnie, both of Rockdale; one brother, Bert, Montreal and 17 grandchildren.

Foneral was held in Church of the Guardian Angel, L'Ardoise. Burial in Mount Calvary Cemetery.

TO TRY FOR TIME RECORD EAST-TO-WEST

Two Canadian Forces CF-5 aircraft from 434 Squadron based at Cold Lake, Alta., will try for an official east-to-west trans-Canada time record on July 1.

The attempt will commemorate the 50th anniversary of the first air force across-Canada airmail flight from Saint John N. B., to Vancouver. That flight, using six different aircraft, took 10 1/2 days to complete.

The Cold Lake squadron now holds the west-east trans-Canada record with an unofficial time of four hours and 24 minutes established last May.

The two CF-5's are scheduled to start the record attempt from CFB Shearwater at 8 a.m. Three refuelling stops are planned with each of six minutes duration. These stops will be at Val d'Or, Que.; Gimli, Man.; and Calgary where selected groundcrews will be located.

Oh, for the life of a teacher

Show me a teacher in June, and I'll show you a character with a crumpled shirt, a wrinkled brow, and a desperate look in his eyes.

His spirit is treading the lush green of the golf course. His inward eye is contemplating the dark swirl of water under a log in a trout stream. And his winter-fat, pudgy body is there in the classroom, which is more like a steam bath. Room temperature, 90 degrees.

Before him loll about 30 students, eyes glazed, minds turned to something important, like a swim, or a joyride, or just lying in the sun.

Chief difference between them is that the kids are arrayed in their coolest, while he, adhering to some ancient and ridiculous tradition, quietly steams in his swaddling of shirt and tie, jacket and trousers.

The students are there only because they have to stick around to write last-hope tests, and find out whether they've been promoted or have to write the "finals." The teacher is there only because somebody, in his infinite wisdom, has decreed that school will continue until a certain day in June.

It's not exactly what we in the so-called profession's jargon call "a good learning situation."

Someday, someone with some common sense is going to close the schools on the first day of June, and open them on the first day of August. June is a month for joy in Canada, not imprisonment in a sauna bath. The days are long, the mosquitoes haven't really found the range, and the world is green and glorious.

By August,the sun has lost some of its blast, the days are shorter and that first wild lust for the lushness of summer has abated. School could run from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m., and there'd still be a decent chunk of a summer day to be enjoyed.

It's not only the heat that makes June rough for teachers. It's the last minute panic. There are 64 memos from the office, telling you to be in three places and doing three different things, at the same time. Or so it seems.

There are the final exams to set, supervise and mark. There are marks to be mustered that would murder a mathematician, and written down in six different places. There are new books to be ordered, and old books (about 10,000 in my case) to be sorted and counted and stored. And everything is to a deadline that always seems to be yesterday.

Some of the young, new teachers find it a traumatic experience. Something like trying to milk a cow while looking over your shoulder for the dangerous bull known to be in the same field. The oldtimers just get irascible, and ignore the bull.

But who can complain? There is the deep satisfaction of knowing that Joe Dough has passed and somebody else will have to teach him next year, that Naughty Nancy, she of the cocky walk and the talky talk, has her ring, and will be driving nobody crazy next year except the poor simpleton who gave it to her.

There is the sincere satisfaction of knowing that some of your graduating students will probably contribute a lot more to the world than you have, as doctors, nurses, teachers, engineers.

There is a special touch of sadness when the kids in the two-year course, who are finished with education, probably forever, inarticulately tell you they have enjoyed their year with ou. Their future is not in pastel shades. They seem so young and vulnerable. You have a great wish that at least they'll find happiness, if not affluence.

And finally, there are two glorious months ahead in which you don't have to leap to your feet and scuttle somewhere like Pavlov's rats, every time a bell rings. I think I'll stick it for another year.

PROVINCIAL FINALISTS IN "CHRISTMAS CANADA"

Thirty-three young Nova Scotians whose Christmas drawings were chosen for final consideration in the Post Office Department's Christmas Stamp Design Project were named recently by the Canada Post Office.

The designs were selected from among over 1,000 drawings received from Nova Scotia children at the Nova Scotia College of Art. Members of the selection committee were Gary Kennedy, President of the College; Dean Aydelotte, Head of Art Education, Nova Scotia College of Art and Design; Allan McKay, Director, Centennial Gallery; John Reppetteau, Art Consultant, Department of Education; and Christopher Pratt, national committee representative.

The designs have been sent on to Ottawa, where the Post Office Advisory Committee on Stamp Design will select 12 Christmas drawings from among those selected in the provinces. The approximately 500 drawings that reach the national level will tour the country as a children's art exhibit in the fall, while the 12 nationally-selected designs will appear on Canada's Christmas stamps this year. The national selection will be made by June 1st.

The young Nova Scotia artists whose drawings were selected by the provincial committee are: Pam Smith, ANNAPOLIS ROYAL; Nancy Whatley, ARMDALE; Teresa Jeudrey, BRIDGEWATER; Sandra Acker, Craig Fraser, Maxine Huntley, Girvan Kelzer, Ena Meyer, CENTREVILLE; Darlene Nickerson, Patricia Nickerson, CLARKS HARBOUR; Anne Day, Victoria Finlay, DARTMOUTH; Valerie England, Carl Hartlen, Ronnie Hayden, Jeanne M. At St. George's Channel

Mr. and Mrs. Bertie MacDougall and two children, Sandy and Hughena, of Boston, Mass., are visiting at the home of Mr. MacDougall's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacInnis, St. George's Channel, where they will spend three weeks.

During the week Mr. and Mrs. MacInnis accompanied Mr. MacDougall to Arichat, where Mrs. MacInnis received medical attention to a broken limb which resulted from a fall last year.

We were very happy to see our good friends and many of our readers will recall the contributions made by "A. F." in recent years.

BAKING BANTER by Suzanne

This dessert is excellent to serve at a shower.

1 1/4 cups egg whites
1 cup sifted Dover all-purpose flour
1/2 cup sifted sugar
1/2 tsp salt
1 1/4 tsp cream of tarter
1 tsp vanilla
1/4 tsp almond extract
1 cup sifted sugar
1--3 oz. pkg. strawberry

Filling:
1 pkg. frozen strawberries
jelly powder
1 cup boiling water
2 tbsp lemon juice
2 envelopes dessert topping
OR 2 cups whipping cream

STRAWBERRY FILLED ANGEL CAKE

Preheat oven to 350°. Sift Dover flour and 1/2 cup sugar together 4 times. Combine egg whites, salt, cream of tarter and flavorings. Beat until whites stand in stiff, moist peaks. Sprinkle 1 cup sugar over surface, 2 tbsp at a time, and fold in. Sift flour mixture over surface in four parts, folding gently after each addition. Slide into ungreased 10-inch tube pan, 4 inches deep. Cut through batter with knife to break large air bubbles. Bake about 45 minutes. Invert and cool in pan. Filling: Defrost berries and drain. Dissolve jelly powder in boiling water. Add berries, 2/3 cup of juice, lemon juice. Chill until partially set. Fold in half of the prepared dessert topping Slice 1 inch from top if cike. Set aside. Remove "well" from cake, leaving 1 inch on sides and bottom. Fill with strawberry mixture and replace top. Chill until well set. Cover with tinted dessert topping. Serves 10 to 12.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Recent Visitors

Mrs. Hilda Latimer of New Glasgow, was a recent visitor to St. Peter's, where she was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Earl MacDonald and Mrs. Bertha Morrison.

It was nice seeing Mrs. Latimer and Mrs. MacDonald when they motored to Arichat. For many years, Mrs. Latimer and her late lamented husband, Josslyn Latimer resided in Arichat and also operated the Duke of York Meadow. Mrs. MacDonald is the former Myrtle Latimer and Mrs. Morrison is the former Bertha Latimer, daughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Latimer of Arichat.

VISITING IN HALIFAX

Rudolph Doiron, who has been visiting his daughter, Eileen and son-in-law, Lonnie McNeil and grand children at 27 Brule St., Dartmouth, for the past two weeks, returned home. Rudolph also visited his step-daughter, Sheila and his brother Charlie and sister-in-law, Lorraine in Halifax before returning home.

From New Jersey

Capt. and Mrs. Charles Boudreau of New Jersey were recent motor visitors to Poulamon, guests of relatives and friends

Capt. Boudreau operates a Fresh Fish business in New Jersey and for some years sailed out of Boston and Gloucester.

We were happy to meet Capt. Boudreau, who is a grand-son of the late Capt. Tom Boudreau, who during his lifetime was in command of passenger boats operating out of Sydney and ports in the Bras d'Or Lakes and Isle Madame.

Visitors To Arichat

While on a recent visit to his summer home in Mabou, Vincent Power, of Needham, Mass., accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Eugene Sanchez and her two sons, G. J. and V. J. Sanchez and Miss Joan Campbell of Mabou, made a boat tour to the wrecked "Arrow" in Chedabucto Bay, with Lloyd Bourinot.

Vincent, who is a native of Arichat, is greatly interested in Isle Madame and its people.

It was nice seeing Vincent and his charming daughter and grandchildren and also to make the acquainatnce of Miss Campbell.

BAKING BANTER by Suzanne

An occasion isn't an occasion without a cake. To make one that is lovely to look at and perfect to eat is every woman's wish. Cakemaking is an art, but not a difficult one.

HINTS ON CAKEMAKING:

When creaming the butter and sugar, if the mixture becomes curdled and frothy, it has been mixed too long, and the result will be a coarsely grained cake.

Add the sifted dry ingredients in 3 parts and the liquid in 2 parts, beginning and ending with the dry ingredients. Mix after each addition only until smooth.

Use shortening to grease the pans, as salted butter may cause sticking. Sprinkle the greased pans with Dover All-Purpose Flour or line with greased, waxed paper. Leave the sides ungreased. Cakes rise more evenly when able to climb slip-free sides. Tap the bottom of the pan sharply with the hand to release air bubbles before placing cake in oven.

Adjust temperature and baking time when another size baking pan is substituted for the one specified. A smaller, deeper pan should be baked at 25° less heat for a longer time; a larger, shallower pan will bake in less time, but at 25° higher temperature.

Very rich cakes and chocolate cakes, when pressed with the finger to test for doneness, may dent slightly and still be done. It is best to test these cakes with a cake tester or toothpick.

WEDDING
BURKE — LANDRY

Immaculate Conception Church was the setting for a pretty wedding of widespread interest, on May 16th at 2 p. m., when Claire, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Adrienne Burke of West Arichat became the bride of Clarence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joselyn Landry of Petit De Grat, Cape Breton.

Gladioli and fern adorned the side of the altar, and the guest pews were marked with white bows and streamers to provide a beautiful setting.

Lohengrin's wedding march was rendered by the organist, Mrs. Joseph Mury, as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father by whom she was given in marriage. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. A. Doucet.

The radiant bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with A-line skirt, empire waist and long tapering sleeves. Delicate bands of guipure lace enhanced the rounded neckline and waistline. Her three tier veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of pearls ending in a long cathedral train. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses held in place with lily of the valley and satin streamers.

Ruth Landry was maid of honor while Louise Boudreau and Margaret Ann Boudreau were bridesmaids. They both wore identical floor length empire gowns of peau de soie in gold with matching flower headdress and long tapering sleeves. They carried bouquets of yellow and white roses and accessories to match.

Miss Landry wore a floor-length gown of peau de soie in green, and with headdress and long tapering sleeves. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums and wore white accessories to match.

Annette Burke, little sister of the bride, was flower girl, looking winsome in a floor-length gown of green peau de soie, carrying a basket of mixed flowers and wearing yellow flowers to match in her hairdo. She wore white accessories.

The best man was Jerry Burke, twin brother of the bride, while Alfred Boudreau and Christopher LeBlanc acted as ushers.

Following the church ceremony a reception was held at the Canadian Legion Hall at Petit de Grat where a large number of guests attended.

The couple were assisted in receiving by Mrs Burke wearing a three piece light green ensemble, with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Landry wore a three piece pink ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

The Hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion. A three-tier wedding cake with a miniaure bride and groom centered the bride's table, with lighted tapers on either side and a bouquet of flowers. The cake was cut in traditional manner by the bride and groom and was served to the guests by the happy couple.

Rev. Fr. A. Doucet said grace and proposed a toast to the bride which was fittingly responded to by the groom.

The popular young couple were the receipients of many valuable gifts including a sum of money.

The young couple left on a honeymoon trip to the Cabot Trail and other points of interest. On their return they will reside here.

We join with their many friends in wishing them a long and happily married life.
