SMILEY'S
FASHIONABLE VIEWS

By Bill Smiley

Women are in a terrible fret these days, poor dears. The fashion designers have once again thrown them into a dither with their decree from the halls of the mighty that skirts were going down. In length, that is.

For a change, there is a good deal of resentment among the gals. Many are declaring belligerently that they're going to stick with the mini. These rebels run all the way from the middle-aged housefraus who would look better in a potato sack, to teeny-boppers who look great in anything, or almost nothing, which some of them favor.

But I'll lay long odds that, if the designers so choose, there won't be a mini-skirt to be seen within a year.

What does grieve me is that women are such utter sheep, when it comes to style. They do everything but jump through hoops when the designers crack the whip.

When it comes to equal rights war, the stupidity of men, and other questions of vital importance, women will fight like tigresses for what they believe. They stand united.

I am a great respector of women in general. They are far more reasonable than men, except when you try to reason with them. They are tender and compassionate, except when they are belting their kids or tongue-lashing the old man for some minor irritant. And they are practical to the point of being ruthless, except when it comes to clothes.

At this juncture, all their good qualities fly out the window. They become the silly, flittery, indecisive, disunited creatures that they have pretended to be for centuries.

Why can't they be themselves? If I were a woman and had long tapering, beautiful legs, and a flat chest, I would wear a mini-skirt and be dammed to him who first cried: "Hold enough."

And if I were short and pudgy, with a big chest, I'd be strongly inclined to wear a maxi Mother Hubbard, hinting at all sorts of mysteries lurking behind the cloth.

If I had bony knees but well-turned ankles, I'd wear a midi-skirt. In short, the skirt is quicker than the eye. It should draw attention away from the less prepossessing aspects (no woman is plain ugly), to the more attractive features.

Now, I'm not just speaking as a man who is ignorant of these things, or uninvolved in them. My wife and daughter have been fighting the battle of the hemline for four years.

"Mom, I can't wear that. It's practically hanging around my knees." This meant that it was barely covering her pelvis.

"All right, Kim, I'll turn it up one more inch, and that's that."

"Oh, Mom, I'll look like a freak out of the thirties. Why don't you forget the whole thing and go listen to your Guy Lombardo records."

I think the old lady had the last word. She took the shortest dress she could find, turned it up four inches, and sent it off to Kim at college. It looked more like a blouse than a dress. Even the kid had to admit the only way it could be worn in public was over long pants.

That's another thing they fight over—long pants. When Kim means long, she means trailing in the mud, snow or whatever.

However, my wife is quite happy about the change. She went rummaging through her wardrobe the other night and discovered a whole pile of things that are almost brand new, and just the right length. She'd never got around to throwing them out when the mini came in.

Enough of that. What does please me these days is the dash, flair and elan of men. For two centures they have been scorned by women for wearing drab blues, browns and greys. Lately they're as colorful as jungle birds.

Just the other day, a friend of mine whom I thought a confirmed bachelor, was married. He was clad in an Edwardian jacket, with lace collar and fringes of lace peeping out at the cuffs. The jacket was decorated with autumnal flowers of all shades. How about that? Presumably he also wore trousers, which were not described. Probably green velvet.

Well, I have to buy a new suit this week, first in four years. I haven't quite decided whether it will be maroon with a mustard stripe, or off-mushroom with purple checks. But it will probably turn out to be grey.

Sick Seaman Taken Off Tanker "Cabatern"

A seaman was taken off the "Motor Tanker Cabatern," of Trans World Shipping ten miles from the headland of Arichat harbour, on Saturday, January 23.

Doctor J. H. E. Winter, of Arichat, received a call on Friday evening, to come to the aid of a sick seaman, suffering from a bleeding ulcer. Doctor Winter, who is a dedicated physician, immediately endeavoured to contact a Government Ship, as well as the Pilot Service in the Strait of Canso, but was unable to make connections.

At the time of the call, at 10 p.m., on (Friday), a herring seiner, "Lady Anna," fishing out of this port from Meteghan, Nova Scotia, commanded by Capt. Lorenzo D'Entremont, was docked at the Arichat Government Wharf. The Doctor requested the Captain to take him out to the ship, which he did without delay.

The "Cabatern" was anchored about 10 miles from the entrance to Arichat harbour. The "Lady Anna" arrived alongside the Oil Tanker at 11.30 p.m. Doctor Winter gave great credit to Capt. D'Entremont's navigational ability and seamanship of his crew.

Due to rough seas a lifeboat was unable to be lowered from the "Cabatern", however, after skilful manouvering a gang-plank was attached to the Seiner and the sick seaman was brought aboard safely and given medical attention by Doctor Winter. Dr. Glynn, of Medical Services, Halifax gave first aid instructions by Radio to the Capt. of the "Cabatern" and suggested to put the seaman ashore, at the nearest port.

The "Lady Anna" returned to Arichat and docked at the government wharf at 1:30 a.m., with Doctor Winter and the seaman, where C. A. Boucher's ambulance was awaiting to transfer the sick man, whose name is David MacDonald, to the City Hospital, in Sydney.

Mystery Solved After Fifty - Seven Years

(The following letter received recently from our good friend, Harvey Burton, of Buffalo, N. Y., seems to have solved a boyhood mystery involving Harvey and another Arichat boy, Joe Collins, now residing in Boston, Mass. The story goes back fifty-seven years ago when both boys undertook a duck and rabbit hunting expedition to the Rabbit Island, located in the Lennox Passage off Madame Island. From what we can recollect the time [illegible] the boys took off from Arichat harbour, in a sail boat. Full of adventure they arrived at the haunted Rabbit Island and in a very short time had bagged many ducks and rabbits. At that time of year darkness sets in fast and the boys felt they must spend the night on the Island and constructed a make-shift shelter. After a long haul to Rabbit Island, as they had to use the oars and hunting for several hours, one can imagine, it wasn't long before the two adventurers, fell fast asleep. It was during midnight when their peaceful slumbers were disturbed, by a startling sound, resembling the chilling cry of a woman or child screaming in distress. The boys hair stood on end with horrible fright and when daylight came they broke up camp in a hurry, however, back home, parents and relatives of the boys became alarmed when they failed to return. Fears were dispelled when a small boat could be seen entering the harbour from the western light of Jerseyman's Island and we were told it was a cold blustery day. After being welcomed at the dock with mixed feelings, the boys told of their adventure and after landing several ducks and many pairs of rabbits they felt their efforts were not in vain, Now our readers will find that Harvey has found the answer and will no longer be haunted by his boyhood adventure.)—Editor

Dear Marshall:

Some while ago I came across the enclosed article which may have a tendency to solve the strange phenomenon of Rabbit Island. The horrid screams heard fifty-seven years ago by Joe Collins and myself, still haunt my memory. Through the years I have searched every possible clue to find the solution to [illegible], but to no avail. After I read the Mark Trail feature on the limpkin bird, certain superstitious thoughts were erased from my mind. Being aware of the fact that your son Lloyd (accompanied by others) also heard the screams of distress, I thought that perhaps you may be interested in the article, which possibly some of your readers have read in week-end features of the daily press under MARK TRAIL.

The Limkin bird is a wader and resembles the Crane and can be found in swampy wilderness. These birds make startling noises at night sounding like the cry of a woman or child and can be heard for half a mile or more. They live on shellfish. These birds have left areas now devoid of swamp lands and more than likely some have found good feeding grounds in places such as Rabbit Island.

HARVEY BURTON

(Harvey also sent us an article taken from the "Courier Express" of Buffalo, N. Y." under the heading "Fish Vary in Egg- Laying Methods", writen by A. Leokum which will be found elsewhere in this issue and Harvey felt it would be of interest to our readers as some of these species of fish are familar to our coast at various seasons of the year. At present herring are being caught in tons by seiners from Western Nova Scotia, fishing in waters off the headlands of Arichat harbor and Chedabucto Bay.—Editor.)

NIGHT COURTS TO BE HELD IN HALIFAX AND CAPE BRETON

Attorney-General Leonard L. Pace said recently that the County of Halifax and the County of Cape Breton have been designated as night court districts under legislation which became effective the first of the year.

Mr. Pace said the purpose of the night courts is to allow persons who might otherwise lose time from work to enter pleas during the evening and thereby avoid loss of wages.

Initially the night proceedings will be limited to entering pleas and full-scale trials will not be conducted.

It is intended to implement night courts elsewhere in the province as time goes on, said Mr. Pace.

Night courts will start at 7 p.m. and continue until 10 p.m. or such time as matters on the docket are disposed of.

In the Halifax area, Judge E. D. Murray will hold a night court at the Provincial Magistrate's Court, Brunswick Street, each Thursday Night.

Judge Martin Haley will hold a night court at the Court House, 16 Windmill Road, Dartmouth, each Wednesday Night.

Judge Nathan Green will hold a night court each Wednesday Night at the Law Courts, Spring Garden Road.

In the Cape Breton area, Judge W.A.D. Gunn, Q.C., will hold a night court at the Town Hall, in Glace Bay each Monday night.

Judge John F. McDonad, will hold a night court at the County Court House, in Sydney each Tuesday Night. In North Sydney, Judge Ronald J. Macdonald, Q.C., will hold a night court at the Town Hall, each Thursday Night.

Municipal police and R.C.M.P. have been instructed to advise persons accused of criminal code or provincial statue offenses that they have an option to enter pleas either at night court or at regular court sittings, whichever is more convenient for the accused.

WEST ARICHAT — We regret to report the passing of Peter Meunier at St. Anne Hospital, Arichat, after a short illness. The late Mr. Meunier was in his 61st year and was a highly regarded resident of this community and will be missed by his family, neighbors and many friends.

During his early life he followed the sea, having been employed with the company of J. P. Porter and Sons. After a very interesting sea-faring career, he was forced to retire a few years ago due to ill-health.

He is survived by his wife the former Margaret Forgeron; his mother, Mrs. Ida May Meunier of Sydney; a brother Leo in D'Escousse; four sisters also survive.

The remans rested at his home and the many floral offerings, Mass cards and messages of sympathey attested to the esteem in which the late Mr. Meunier was held. The funeral which was largely [illegible] took place from the Immaculate Conception Church of which he was a devout member. Rev. Father A. Doucet, was celebrant at the Mass, assisted by Rev. Father James Mombourquette of D'Escousse. Burial was in the Parish cemetary.

Funeral arrangements by C. A. Boucher of Arichat.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved wife, mother, brothers and sisters, all of whom have suffered a great loss.

like a curlew's cry,
[illegible]at they must have heard in the Isle of Skye,
the outer Hebrides;
[illegible]unds like the bells from their ancient Churches, song of wind in the hill-top birches, its sigh in the rowan trees.

[illegible]y missed the stags on the rugged ridges,
the pure of barns beneath the bridges,
they must have sensed a lure;
a longing for the handsome

FIND OUT HOW TO BUILD YOUR NEW HOME

Hundreds of Nova Scotians have found they don't have to be expert carpenters to build a house. And to those who doubt this, the Nova Scotia Housing Commission is inviting them to find out for themselves.

Starting the last week in January classes in home building will be sponsored by the NSHC for people who have an application on file under Cooperative Housing Self-Help Program.

The home building program, coordinated by the Continuing Education Division of the Nova Scotia Department of Education, lasts 10 consecutive weeks, one evening each week. Qualified home construction instructors give practical instruction in such subjects as basic carpentry,, foundation construction and framing, insulation installation and roofing.

The classes, which are free of charge to cooperative builders under the Commission's program, are held in designated locations throughout the province.

In many cases, wives and children who are often involved in the construction of a cooperative home are enrolled in the classes. In 1970 over 300 persons received certificates of proficiency upon completion of the course.

One aspect of the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service is a free prenatal blood test to check the Rh-factor of a mother-to-be. This enables her doctor to be prepared for any Rh-factor complications which might arise during or after hte pregnacy.

STATEMENT BY WELFARE MINISTER ALLAN E. SULLIVAN

The Province will share over-expenditures totalling $1.5 million incurred during the 1970 calendar year by municipal welfare departments, Welfare Minister Allan E. Sullivan announced on December 23, 1970.

The welfare minister noted that municipal welfare departments submit projected operational plans in advance of each calendar year with 1970 plans being received by department in the fall of 1969. Under the system proposed municipal welfare expenditures were examined early in 1970 and forwarded to each municipal welfare department.

Mr. Sullivan also pointed out that the budgets cover three distinct items; administrative costs of operating municipal welfare offices, general assistance paid to needy persons in their own homes and costs of caring for patients in homes for special care.

Unfortunately, the minister said, the budgets alloted for municipal welfare departments have proven to be insufficient to meet the increasing costs incurred by the municipal level of government during the year.

A number of municipal welfare departments, recognizing that additional funds would be required, requested the Province early in the current year to make more money available. It has not been possible until now to consider all requests and make a definite determination as to what the costs would be for the entire year, the welfare minister said.

Mr. Sullivan said the appropriate municipal officials would be notified immediately the amount of overexpenditure his department will approve for cost sharing purposes.

Return From Flordia

Mr. and Mrs. Roddie MacInnis, of West Bay, have arrived home after spending a delightful holiday in Flordia where they visited at St. Petersborough and Miami and other places of interest in the U. S. A.

Mr. MacInnis for some years operated a mink ranch at West Bay and retired from this industry about three years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. MacInnis are now engaged as Amway distributors and have built up a large business in Cape Breton and parts of the mainland for these household and industrial products.

Both Roddie and Daisy are highly regarded by business associates and friends throughout Cape Breton Island.

We enjoyed a friendly visit from Roddie and Daisy recently and we were greatly interested in their trip to Flordia where they met many friends who had made visits to their summer cottages overlooking the beautiful Bras D'Or Lakes.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY

Mrs. George Boudreau

Mrs. George Boudreau, of Petit Grat, passed away recently at her home. She was in her 47th year.

The late Mrs. Boudreau was a daughter of Jeantie Boudreau and the late Mrs. Boudreau of Petit de Grat. She was a highly regarded lady and her work in community affairs will long be remembered and cherished, more especially as President of St. Joseph's C. W. L,, of Petit de Grat. Always ready to help in any worthwhile projects in the parish and gave generously of her time and leadership.

Her Christain faith was well founded and exemplified throughout her lifetime, in devotion to her church, husband, children, relatives and to the needy.

Surviving besides her husband are three sons, George Jackie and Gerard; also two daughters: Mrs. Francis Jeffrey, (Diane), Louisdale and Brenda at home.

Also survivng is her father, Jeantie Boudreau; a sister, Mrs. Sylvester Samson, (Clarisse) and a brother, Alzear, all of Petit de Grat.

The funeral which was largely attended took place from St. Joseph's Church, of which she was a devout member. Rev. Father Arsenault was the celebrant at the Mass and was assisted by Rev. James Mombourquette, Rev. John MacDonald, Rev. Felix Boudreau, Rev. Conrad Gerrior and Rev. Daniel Doucet.

FROM DUNDEE

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacLean, of Dundee, were recent visitors to Arichat. Mr. MacLean operates a mink ranch at Dundee.

IN HOSPITAL

Ronnie DeBaie, of Pondville, is a patient at City Hospital, Sydney, where he underwent surgery. We are pleased to report that Ronnie, is well on the road to complete recovery.

VISIT FRIENDS AT WEST ARICHAT

We recently visited Mr. Robert Haskill at West Arichat, where we spent a very pleasant afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Haskill took up residence in that community several years ago, in the home formerly occupied by Mrs. Haskill's late parents. At the time of our visit Mrs. Haskill was a patient at St. Anne Hospital, Arichat. Her sister, Miss Marie LeBlanc, of Medford, Mass., is at present visiting her sister and brother-in-law.

Mr. Haskill, who is a retired sea Captain, is a most delightful man and we enjoyed hearing about his seafaring days, which took him to many parts of the world as master of sailing ships, out of Newfoundland ports. Mr. Haskill is a native of Newfoundland and moved to the U. S. A., some years ago and was employed as Master of sailing yachts, several photos of these beautiful sailing craft can be seen in his home.

During the International schooner races off Halifax, Capt. Ben Pine skpper of the fishing schooner, skipper of the American fishing schooner "Gertrude L. Thibeau", engaged Mr. Haskill as a crew member and one can fully realize that Bob Haskill's ability and experience was most valuable in that race against the "Bluenose", which resulted in one win over a triangle course for the "Gertrude L. Thibeau" and two wins for the "Bluenose" which retained her North Atlantic championship.

Mr. Haskill had high praise for his late friend, Capt Ben Pine, who he said was an excellent seaman and sportsman.

We look forward to having more sea stories of Mr. Haskill's seafaring experiences.

Before returning home we paid a visit to our old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Forgeron, who are good neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Haskill.

Wilson now retired after spending several years in the U.S.A., as a dredge operator, makes frequent calls at the Haskill home, having known Bob when he resided in Massachusetts.

During his early life, Wilson operated his own vessel in the coastal trade.

Residing with Mr. and Mrs. Forgeron is their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Doiron. Mr. Doiron was away in Maine, at the time, where he will spend a few weeks with his daughter and son-in-law and grandson, Courtney Henry.

RECEIVE LETTER FROM ULYSSE BOUTIN

We were happy to receive a letter from our good friend, Ulysse Boutin who now resides in Grimsby, Ont., and is employed by the CNR in St. Catherines. Previous to being stationed in St. Catherines, Ulysse spent 30 years in Montreal in the employ of the CNR and tells us he misses Montreal, but is becoming accustomed to his new home. Both he and Mrs. Boutin make monthly trips to Montreal to visit their two married sons and grandchildren.

He informed us that his sister, Aline is now retired and is spending the winter with another sister, Cecile in Yarmouth, N.S.

We regretted to learn in his letter that his sister, Irene passed away in New York, last October and that his brother, Francis died in California, December 16th. He had been hospitalized since the last war.

Ulysse is a son of the late Capt. and Mrs. Frank Boutin of West Arichat both of whom were highly regarded residents of that place, during their lifetime.

Nice hearing from you Ulysse and we look forward to a visit from you to Isle Madame next summer.

Pollution On Great Lakes

We were greatly interested in a commentary over TV on the Great Lakes, showing how industry is polluting the shore line of many of these beautiful lakes and how residential and tourist areas are being replaced with industrial giants towering the skyline.

The oil spill from the Tanker Arrow, which came to grief on Cerberus Rock, in Chedabucto Bay, gave one an idea of what damage can result from pollution. We saw some of our shoreline marred with bunker C and many wild birds left to die as a result of this sea disaster. We are happy to state that the clean-up last summer has restored some of our shoreline to normal and the return of hundreds of seagulls and ducks gives one the assurance that gulls and game birds have not been depleted.

This TV Commentary gives viewers something to think about and It would appear that all levels of government have a great responsibility in trying to solve the problems of pollution which is now present and to prevent further pollution in the years to come.

Cape Breton Island, is still a tourist paradise and if industrial growth is carefully planned for the future, our island will remain as a popular summer resort.

The Bras D'Or Lakes, the largest inland salt water lakes in the world, located on Cape Breton Island and bordering the Trans-Canada Highway Route 105 on the North side of the lake and Route 104 on the South Side of the lake, where many beautiful bathing beaches can be found. Baddeck Bay is noted for yacht racing and sailing during the tourist season. No pollution has entered the Bras D'Or Lakes to any great extent and with the absence of industry along its shoreline, this lake should be free of pollution for many years to come, provided close watch of its waters are maintained.

When the Tanker Arrow struck Cerberus Rock, in Chedabucto Bay, about a year ago and resulted in the spilling of thousands of gallons of bunker C oil, the word pullotion was foreign to these parts, but the damage caused by this spill, became quite realistic and left no doubts in our minds, that it could happen here or any other part of our coastline. The experience gained from this spill, will no doubt be most valuable in the event of a similar disaster.

Fish Vary In Egg-Laying Methods

By A. LEOKUM

(The Courier-Express, Buffalo)

MOST FISHES lay eggs and these eggs are fertilized outside the body. Fishes that shed eggs are known as oviparous. But some fishes gave birth to living young. These are known as viviparous.

Among the viviparous fishes are guppies mollies. The eggs are fertilized inside the body of the female and grow into baby fish there. At the appropriate time they are born. In the platies it is 21 days after fertilization.

THE NUMBER of eggs that are laid and fertilized vary a great deal with one kind of fish to another. Some fishes just shed their eggs and then abandon them, show no more interest in them. These kind of fishes lay great numbers of eggs. Those fishes that watch over their developing young lay for smaller numbers of eggs.

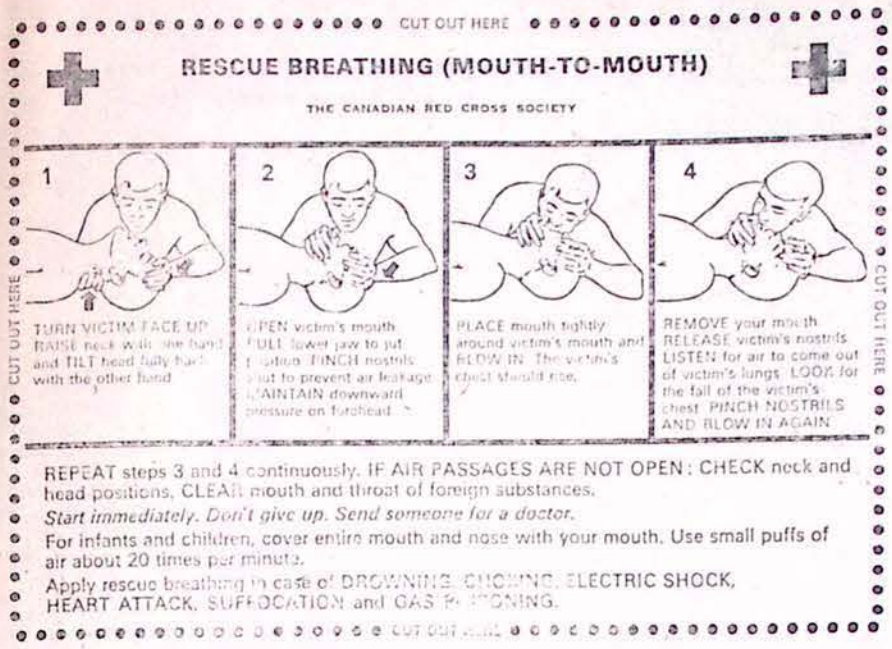

Fishes also lay two types of eggs. One type floats and the other sinks. Eggs that float are called pelagic eggs. They are usually tiny and transparent and do not have much yolk. Eggs that sink are called demersal eggs. They are usually heavier and yolky.

AS AN EXAMPLE, herring lay demersal eggs and show no care for these eggs. They may deposit 20,000 to 40,000 eggs. Cod, on the other hand, lay pelagic eggs. An everage-sized cod can lay one hundred million eggs!

Mackerel lay 400,000 to 500,000 at a time. Large halibut can lay over 2,000,000 eggs.

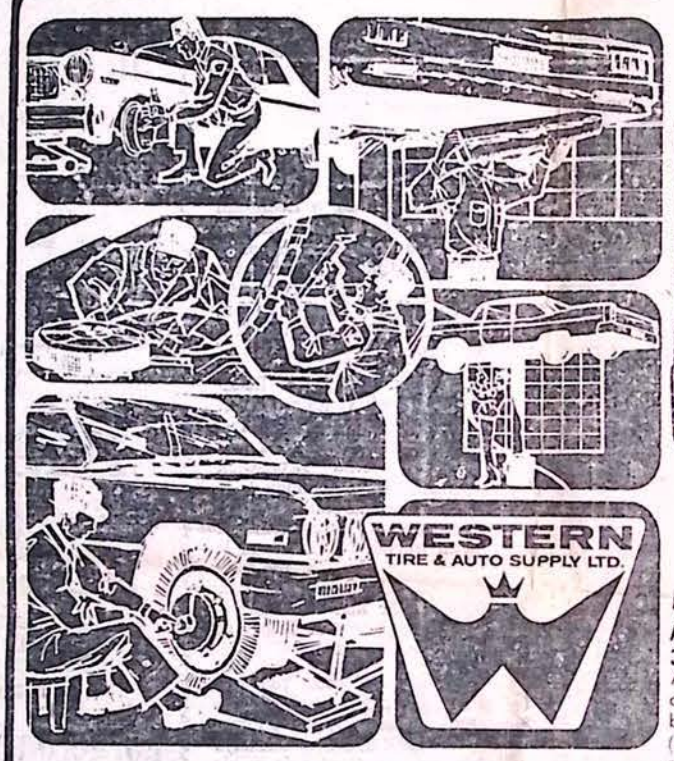

Eggs vary in size too. Herring eggs are 1/25-inch in diameter Cod eggs are about 1/15-inch, Halibut eggs are are ⅛-inch. Eggs that are guarded until the young are larger have a greater chance for survival. But billions and billions of fish eggs are eaten by other creatures.
